PEACE CONFERENCE STARTS ACTUAL WORK IN BUENOS AIRES

+ CHIEFS OF TWENTY-ONE NA-TIONS MET IN GREAT AN-CHORENA PALACE ROOM

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 3 (P)—Twenty-one nations of western hemisphere started their actual work of perpetuating American peace today.

Chiefs of the twenty-one delegations forming the steering committee of the Inter-American conference, met in the great, French-style, tapistried room of Anchorena Palace, under the chairmanship of Carlos Saavedra Lamas, Argentine foreign minister.

From the conference delibera-tions, which the committee will guide, are expected to come inter-

Hull was at one end of the great table with Sumner Welles, United States ambassador to Argentina on the other.

As Saavedra Lamas addressed the committee, pledging to do his utmost in behalf of permanent peace, Secretary Hull listened attentative to the English translation provided through earphones.

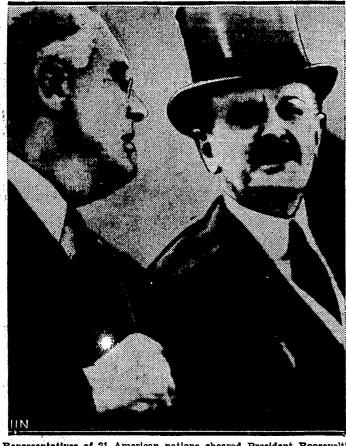

The Argentine foreign minister declared the tremendous popular demonstrations for President Roosevelt on his three-day stay.

THREE CONVICTIONS FOR OPERATING OPEN SALOON AFFIRMED

COURT OF CRIMINAL AP-PEALS ACTS ON IMPOR-TANT CASES TODAY

AUSTIN, Dec. 2.—(P)—The court of criminal appeals affirmed to-day three convictions for operating an open salcon. The only previous open salcon, convictions ing an open saloon. The only previous open saloon convictions to reach the state's highest criminal court had been reversed because of faulty complaints.

The fines affirmed were two of $500 each against J. L. Nounces of Houston, also known as Johnny Jack, and one of $100 against M. J. Gremillion, operator of the southern grill at Houston at the time the alleged offense occurred.
The court held in the Gremillion case that the liquor board inspeccase that the liquor board inspec-tors who came to his establish-ment were not accomplice wit-nesses because they testified they did not enter for the purpose of buying whisky but to eat. They could see the grill was selling the whisky by the drink and merely took steps to detect the crime, the court said.

The Nounces case was affirmed

The Nounces case was affirmed on grounds the complaint was adequate and the appellant filed no exceptions nor brief.

The court upheld a second conviction of Monte bridges for murder of Jay Donaldson in Garza county July 1, 1934. Bridges was assessed a 50-year term at his second trial in Dawson county.

John Barr of Coryell county lost his last chance to avoid a 99 year prison sentence when the court denied his motion for rehearing. The penalty, imposed at a third trial in McLennan county, was more severe than that in tv. was more severe than that in either of the previous trials. Barr was convicted of killing John Mayhugh with a wagon standard on January 5, 1933.

On the beflagged shore, a tumultuous crowd, packed behind 3,000 khaki uniformed soldiers, braved a cold rain and wind.

The troops, both cavalry and infantry, lined twelve blocks of the route arranged for a Roosevelt-Terra motor tour.

Escorted by Uruguay's one-ship fleet, the 1,100-ton cruiser Uruguay, and a naval tug, the Indianapolis came up to the dock amid the pealing of Montevideo's churchbells.

The Indianapolis fired a 21-gun and interesting the full power of parole and pardon in the governor of the state alone. The board of pardons, after mature deliberation, he said, should be the recommending body and the governor should be given the power of veto, but not the power of pardon to a criminal on his own initiative.

"I believe in segregation of criminals," Governor Allred said further. "The first offender should not be placed in a position where he will be influenced by harden.

The Indianapolis fired a 21-gun salute and a single cannon ashore replied. The sirens of harbor craft sent up a din of greet.

The commons procedure was outlined thus:
Clement R. Attlee, leader of His Majesty's opposition, has decided to rise from his seat just opposite the premier and ask him simply: "Has the Prime Minister a statement to make?"
Then will come Baldwin's turn to reply, fully and frankly.
Whatever the outcome, it was learned on excellent authority. Mrs. Simpson probably will leave England soon and seek seclusion either on the continent or an ocean voyage.

Trankly Stated

LONDON, Dec. 3.—(P)—Unruffeld by a government crisis over his possible marriage to Mrs. Wallis Simpson, Britain's bachelor king stood firm today in his insistence on private liberty.

From accurate, definite and authoritative representations, the Associated Press learned King Edward has made any plans for possible marriage to Mrs. Simpson.

The king feels assured, they added, of the loyalty of the great masses of the British public and that in any problem affecting either his public or private life he will continue to have their sympathy and support.

Financial leaders expressed fear over possible effects on the stock exchange and the money market. Business was almost suspended

COLD CREAMS.

COLD CREAMS TO USE
Miss Forbes tells you exactly what creams to use, and also, more important, too, which ones not to use. For some have only price, but lit-tle virtue.

There are certain beauty aids about whose value there can be no doubt at all. If you don't believe this, just go not so healthy, but who wants to simulate both these attractions.

Nonsense enough is written about cold creams, godness knows!
But only the gullible ones believe that the way to beauty lies through the lavish use of creams on the face. Actually cold creams sere of two kinds only, and have but two purposes. One is to cleanse, and the other is to lurricate—and these two functions are important enough! The cream for cleansing should be so light that it is little more than a slightly solldified oil, which will melt and run as soon as it meets the warmth of the skin. Personally, I find theatrical cleansing cream both the best and the cheapest.

The other cream should be

The other cream should be made of almond oil—real almond oil—and the best way to make sure it is real and doesn't call itself that, is to make it yourself. For the much older woman, one of the solids in the cream should be lanolin, which is the only thing known to do any nourishing. And actually the best way to combine these two on the face is to buy almond oil by the ounce, and rub. the skin first with it, and then with a bit of lanolin itself—you can get this in tubes. This makes a skin mixture which is ideal for dry faces and for old and for wrinkled ones.

"ent necessity," the 23-year-old ex-baker told the British delegation in his office at the war department.

"The shortage of beans, potatoes and other foods for cooking has become acute."

All Madrid, the commissar said, has been forced on a vegetarian diet with not even a little ham bone in the way of meat seen for nearly a month.

"Actual starvation is not yet facing us," the plump, unshaven Yague assured his visitors, "but we are all going short.

"For many poor families rice soup and bread now constitutes the sole daily meal." other cream should be

It costs very litte, too, an added advantage. But no other oils do so much good to the skin, if they do good at all! Olive oil is a good lubricant—not quite so good as almond oil ood as almond oil.

Mrs. N. B.—A good reducing lunch is a slice of whole-wheat bread, or a sandwich made from it, and a tomato and lettuce filling. An all-vegetable lunch is aning. An all-vegetable lunch is another one, although none of these should be friend. A vegetable soup is still another idea, as it satisfies the appetite so there is no need for eating too much. It is very stimulating, too, so that one feels refreshed quickly if there is any feeling of being fagged from too much effort. If you get hungry, or feel the need of more food late in the afternoon, a cup of very weak hot tea will refresh you, or just hot water, if you are not situated to have the tea. Hot malted milk at such a time is also helpful.

Food Supplies In Madrid Reported

MADRID, Dec. 2.—(R)—An "acute" shortage of food for Madrid's 1,300,000 people was described to visiting members of the British parliament today in tragic detail by Pablo Yague, commissar of food supplies.

the New Orleans market so far this week was again in evidence, but prices were allowed to slip off around 25 cents a bale in the early dealines. There was little speculative activity to speak off.

Early weather reports told of normal conditions over the belt.

The market quieted down during the morning with prices ruling about 25 cents a bale under previous closing levels. Trade buyers continued to atford the market a little support, but buying was not in the volume of recent sessions.

December was inactive and most of the business centered in Market.

PROBING OUR OWN TIMES, IN NAME OF NERO AND PAUL '

One of History's Greatest Reversals Has Present Meaning for World---Decapitated, Old Apostle Still Guides Thinking of Millions---His Parting Counsel to Young Friend.

On the Appian Way, three miles by a big man, fitted to his time. out from Rome, stands the beautiful "Church of The Three Fountains," It marks the traditional title Paul; and it gets its name creature; one of the world's burners. the Paul; and it gets its name from the tradition that when Ne-ro's swordsman decapitated the venerable missionary, his head, bouncing, struck the earth three bouncing, struck the earth three immerse themselves in some entires, and that a fountain sprang, up at each point of contact.

Doubtless the tradition is worthless; but it commemorates the grisly fact that Paul, a Roman citizen, was executed in a manner not deemed shameful. The Roman citizen was executed in a manner not deemed shameful. The Roman citizen was executed in a manner not deemed shameful. The Roman citizen was executed in a manner not deemed shameful. The Roman citizen was executed in a manner not deemed shameful. The Roman citizen was executed in a manner not deemed shameful. The Roman citizen was executed in a manner not deemed shameful. The Roman citizen was not shaded to be a considered to be less; but it commemorates the grisly fact that Paul, a Roman citizen, was executed in a manner not deemed shameful. The Romans thought that they had thereby put an end to this pestiferous propagandist of a new faith. The last word seemingly was with all-powerful Nero. How little t powerful Nero.

How little they knew! Today men call their dogs "Nero." but they name their sons "Paul." Thousands of books, plays, articles and addresses have exercised that contemptible and degenerate criminal who occupied Rome's imperial throne; and carelessly sendant of the arged law to death a grain of unselfish service and of all missing responsibility? inal who occupied Rome's impurial throne; and carelessly sentenced the aged Jew to death.
Still greater thousands of books, plays, articles, lectures and series, articles, lectures and series, articles, lectures and series, who have exalted the mighty plays, articles, lectures and ser-mons have exalted the mighty brain and mightier character of the man who serenely met death at the hands of a Roman swords-we vait and sec." After all, the new may be true. When conserv-atism becomes obscurantism it atism becomes obscurantism it has dug its own grave. Possession of power implies an obligotion to take long, broad views. Poor little Nero, rotten with disease and with a mind obsessed by egotism, was not able to envisage the might of a truth which could not be extinguished by an executioner's sword; still less did he dream that ere three centuries had passed imperial Rome would become officially Christian, and the cross surmount the eagles.

In our swiftly-changing times, the cross surmount the eagles.

In our swiftly-changing times, with destiny riding high-powered automobiles a n d airplanes, thoughtful persons may well pause to consider the significance of Paul vis-a-vis Nero. In the changes so loudly and widely proposed a powerful party much is changes so loudly and widely propaganded, nowadays how much is true, and of God? Is the old order permanent, or has the Eternal better ways of life for His children? If He has, what are they? How do the new notions that are seeping through all classes of society square with the Divine Law, which is perpetual and universal in its application. Speaking each for himself we may ask, "Am I lined up with Nero, or with Paul?" These are definitely—and even desperately—days for earnest introspection and for far vision.

Swan Song Of A Saint.
All we really know of the last days of Saint Paul we learn from allusions in his farewell letters to his young helpers, Timothy and Titus. After his first imprison-ment in Rome, which lasted two years, he was freed, and he made another missionary journey. Mean-while, Rome had burned, and to divert suspicion from himself, while, Rome had burned, and to divert suspicion from himself, Nero accused the Christians of being responsible. Anti-Christian persecutions intensified. Somehow Paul was again taken to Rome, there to await the assured end. How a man dies is the final kleig light upon his character. Most men, in Faul's case, would have been engrossed in plans for escape from his fate. In such a plight, it would be natural for a man to direct all his thought to plight, it would be natural for a man to direct all his thought to proving his inhocence, and to lamenting his lot.

Not so Paul. To the end, his solicitude for the Kingdom was his supreme concern. He had lived for the Gospel, and he would die for the Gospel, His swan song, these Pastoral Epistles, was a trumpet call to Christian living.

The mess in Thy invading love, lay on us the burden of the world's suffering, drive us forth with the apostolic fervor of Thy early church.—John Wilhelm Rowntree.

Taking The Long Look.
Intrenched power is usually stupid. It suffers from atrophied imagination. Rare is the Gamailel who counsels, "Hands off, while we yait and see." After all, the clear and saw it whole. He was statesman and scholar, just what is really most worthwhile in life.

In the passages assigned for study in this Lesson, Paul deals bluntly with the money question. Then, as now, money seemed of paramount importance. It was the prize for which most persons struggled, the influence that shaped their lives. So Paul drew a picture of the consequences of the pursuit of money, and the evils that befall the rich, such as any Broadway columnist could

FAIR TRADE ACTS UPHELD BY SUPREME | Remain in Cannes | MRS. SIMPSON'S NAME COURT'S DECISION

PROHIBITS SALE STANDARD PRODUCTS BELOW FIXED PRICES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7 .- (AP)-The California and Illinois "fair trade" acts which prohibit the sale of standard products at less than a price fixed by the producer were held constitutional today by the supreme court. Justice Sutherland delivered both unanimous opinions which sustained rulings by the state supreme courts upholding the legislation. The measures were intended to prevent price cutting.

After upholding the Illinois law,
Sutherland said the questions presented by the California cases were substantially the same and upon the authority of that decision the decree by the California court was affirmed.

The California law, enacted in 1933, was an amendment to a 1931 measure, known as Section 1 1-2 of the "fair trade" act, the amendment reads:

"Wilfully and knowingly advertising, offering for sale or selling

The Continental company's increase will boost the price of crude oil to $1.35 a barrel on oil 40 degrees gravity and above.

Executives Are Surprised.
TULSA, Okla., Dec. 4.—(#)—Executives of major crude oil purchasing companies manifested great surprise today over the anoil company of a 17-cent increase in the price of crude over 40 gravity effective January 4. None would say it would meet Continental's advance. E. A. Bacon, crude buyer for the Shell Petroleum comporation, said definitely Shell would not meet Continental's hite. tinental's hike.
Officials of Stanolind, Carter. Culf, Texas and other companies followed suit.

The general impression in oil circles was that while the position of the crude market gave some merit to Continental's increase, the situation at present did not justify general advance.

YOEMEN HAVE IMPRESSIVE RECORD FOR SEASON'S COMPETITION

By PAUL MOORE Sun Sports Editor.

I. O. O. F. Home Lynx football team will meet the 2 Cameron Yoemen at Cameron Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Region class B championship of the University of Texas Interscholastic league. Arrangements for this important engagement were completed at a conference of officials of the two high schools held Sunday afternoon in Neither club has ever annexed the regional crown. Cameron lost on one occasion in the regional competition, while Friday night will be the fifth time the Lynx have gone that far without a win. Some of the boys on the team will be playing their third or fourth regional skirmish and are reported to have dedicated their best efforts to winning this honor urday's game of the Y. M. C. A. sponsored county basketball league gave Union High undisputed lead in the percentage column of the boy's division. Union High defeated Richland. In the girl's loop four teams. Emhouse, Rice, Barry and Navarro are tied for top position, with five games having been rained out.

The boy's league will call a halt until after Christmas because of the tenth annual invitation tournament's starting this week-end.

MARRIED WOMAN'S EXPERIENCE.

GLAMOUR RECAPTURED.

Read what Miss Forbes tells you about one married wom-an's experience in recaptur-ing her youth and some of her old glamour.

for three months, and she determined that when he came back it would be to a quite different looking wife.

She was 36 years old, she had become plump, had lost her complexion, and her hair was no longer what it used to be. In fact, she looked as any woman would who had concentrated on house, husband and children for a dozen years. As soon as she was alone she began dieting and invested in a new and more expensive corset. She went to a Gym and exercised faithfully for an hour a day. In less than three months she had the slim firm figure of a young girl again.

She spent ten minutes every might massaging her scalp with a hair tonic, had her hair cut in an entirely different way, and experimented with brightening rinses to produce a richer color. She gave herself a daily 15 minute face massage, had a weekly manicure, and made her nails young by soaking them for 10 minutes a day in hot oil.

For complexion, health and added slenderness she had a weekly treatment in a hot cabinet, perspiring away pounds of flesh and all the acids that were making her joints stiff with rheumatism and her movements like those of a middle-aged woman. With all this she completely changed the colors she normally wore. Clothes that were not new were made over and dyed. all her "glamour."

Mrs. H. C.—It may be possible that the hot iron on your hair, directly after using the brilliantine, may have caused the hair to take on that yellowish caste. This is only a supposition though, as heat should not affect the shade of silvery white hair, and a fine oil should not do it either. Brillantines are supposed to be nothing but fine oils. There are conditions in the system too that will cause silvery hair to yellow slightly. The bluing rinse will help to counteract this yellow tendency—just ordinary laundry bluing, or the prepared blue rinse that is sold for the purpose. The shavings from an indelible pencil will give a pretty blue tint to the rinse if you care for this.

and the masters, mates and pilots today rescinded their order for a strike in support of the Pacific coast maritime walk-out. Captain James J. Delaney, presi-Captain James J. Delaney, president of the Masters, Mates and Pilots, told reporters the two unions originally had voted to strike November 25 in hope that support of the walkout would bring together the regular International Seamen's union and its rank-and-file element. The strike, he added, had failed to have that effect.

The two unions were influenced also by the American Federation of Labor's vote, at its Tampa, Fla., convention, to lend "moral support" to the seamen's union against insurgent strikers, Delaney said.

The convention found that insurgent strikers on the east coast, in sympathy with the west coast walk-out, were the working of communists.

William Brown, president of the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, said Delaney was authorized to speak for the engine-

"Two other arrests were made at Abilene. William V. Willburn and Frank Kincaid were held by United States Commissioner Ida M. James today on bonds of $1,000 for possessing and passing $1,000 for possessing and passing counterfeit coins.

"There will probably be other arrests in the case, but we don't know yet just how widespread the ring, was. The coins were good counterfeit. They were very hard to distinguish from the real article.

"Court opens at Lubbock this week and we hope to have all the defendants in this case three. They all pleaded guilty and I don't think they will ask for con-tinuances."

counties. held Thursday In the K. of P. Hall, was well attended, considering the diragreeable weather, which kept quite a number from attending, as did the death of Mrs. E. E. Miller, sister-in-law of Mrs. Aubrey Nutt, guardian.

The school of instruction opened at 10 a. m., with Mrs. Lena Sugart of Garland, the state manager, presiding in the absence of Mrs. Nutt.

The combined teams of Bradon and Waxahachie and Meador and Waxahachie in blue uniforms with red ties at the throat, received the distinguished guests, which included Mrs. Sugart, Mrs. Olive Boren of Ennis, and Mrs. Lillian Porter, Hillsboro, national representative; Mrs. D. A. Whittington, Ennis, district advisor, and Mrs. Pearl Noel, also of Ennis, past president of the tri-county organization.

The Brandon team, captained by Mary Kate Curry, received the United States flags, and after the seating of the officers, the school of instruction opened and continued until the noon hour, when a bountiful covered dish lucheon was served in the banquet hall. The long table was centered throughout its length with clusters of ane mones, carnations, ranneculas and they chrysanthemums in containers covered in blue metalic paper, in lovely effect. Covers were laid for the table, gave the invocation.

At 2 p. m. the school of instruction continued to a close, after which a Christmas box designed to represent the Orphans and Aged Peoples' Home in Sherman, was filled with gifts for the orphans from a heautifully decorated Christmas tree.
